HAND OF GOD

USA, 2005, 96 MIN

DIRECTED BY JOE CULTRERA

EAST COAST PREMIERE

Deeply rooted in the details of growing up in a devout Italian Catholic family in Salem, Massachusetts, HAND OF GOD is both a personal film about one family's response to abuse by the clergy and a powerful indictment of their Church. In 1964 filmmaker Joe Cultrera's older brother, Paul, was sexually abused by a priest. What followed were 30 years of silence as Paul grew from potential priest to relentless investigator and critic. In this movie Paul and his brother peel away the layers of blind faith to uncover the truth. Unique and provocative, HAND OF GOD is both narratively and visually compelling. This movie is about sexual abuse, lies, and the abuse of power, but it is also about a family's love and how they regain their footing as the institutional Church crumbles around them.

AFRAID SO

DIRECTED BY JAY ROSENBLATT

EAST COAST PREMIERE/2ND US SHOWING

Jay Rosenblatt, last year's Grand Jury Award winner for Best Documentary Short (Phantom Limb), returns with this thought-provoking, experimental film about anxiety and fear. AFRAID SO is based on a poem by Jeanne Marie Beaumont and features the voice of Garrison Keillor.
